The chef and adventurer goes even wilder in Season 2 of ‘Gordon Ramsay: Uncharted’

Many know Gordon Ramsay as the foul-mouthed taskmaster who delivers the unvarnished truth to chefs and restaurateurs on shows such as “Hell’s Kitchen” and “24 Hours to Hell and Back.” But a different Ramsay emerged to showrunner Jon Kroll during a stop in Guyana while filming Season 2 of “Gordon Ramsay: Uncharted.”

“In Guyana, we had really, really limited satellite internet that was available to us,” Kroll explains. “And Gordon runs an empire, he’s a very busy guy. And I woke up at six o’clock in the morning to the sound of howler monkeys chanting. I look out and Gordon was sitting with a cup of coffee at the edge of the Rewa River.”

“Because no one could reach him, no one could find him,” he continues. “He truly was uncharted and he looked really blissful, and I’ve never seen that look on his face before. He was just that kind of blissed out. And I think he really dug being not reachable for a while.”

In the new season, which kicks off Sunday, June 7, on National Geographic, Ramsay goes further off-grid for more adventures, culinary and otherwise, in places like Guyana, to hunt bare-handed for caiman and fish for piranha; Indonesia, to search for giant prawns in a bat-infested cave; South Africa, to harvest mussels from rocks in the treacherous Indian Ocean; and in the season opener, Tasmania off the south coast of Australia, to fly-fish for trout, forage for herbs and vegetables, and dive in shark-infested waters for giant rock lobsters.

That episode culminated in a co-op with chef and local expert Analiese Gregory, with the menu consisting of the aforementioned lobster, wallaby (whose overpopulation downunder rivals that of deer in parts of North America) glazed in pricey, locally distilled whiskey and indigenous vegetables.

“I had a really good time cooking with him ...,” Gregory says. “It kind of reminded me of being back in the kitchen in London, like his skills are amazing. He’s really fast, he’s really good. I was pretty prepared and they were like, ‘Oh, he likes a bit of trash talk.’ So I just spent the whole time like trash-talking him ... He took it very well. He gives as good as he gets and it was a really enjoyable cook-off.”

As for the food, Kroll was blown away by the lobster and surprised at how lean yet tender the wallaby was.

“I think venison is the best comparison,” he says. “It doesn’t taste gamey. It really has kind of a mild flavor to it. And I think that both he and Analiese ... were focusing on not masking the flavor or overseasoning it because the natural flavor of it is quite tasty and not like a strong pungent flavor like you get from some wild game even though they are wild game.

“I mean, they have access to this incredible landscape of forest to feed on and wild herbs and stuff like that, and that all comes through in the meat. So it’s a very delectable venison-type flavor.”

Renovation Island
“Go big or go home” is clearly the motto of this new series, in which renovation experts Bryan and Sarah Bechtel pack up their kids and move to a tropical island, where they’ll undergo the biggest professional project of their career: renovating a huge, rundown beachfront resort in the Bahamas. In the series premiere, “Welcome to Boyland,” the family arrives at their destination and almost immediately discovers that the island weather, wildlife and remote location will present unique challenges behind-seas.

8:30 p.m. on WFOR
Movie: Grease Sing-Along
Originally, tonight was scheduled to include the annual Tony Awards telecast honoring the best of the latest Broadway season, which was cut short by the coronavirus pandemic. That same health emergency brought down the curtain on that live special, but CBS has come up with replacement programming that still salutes Broadway — sort of. This re-broadcast of the blockbuster 1978 movie adaptation of the musical “Grease” airs here with follow-along lyrics to encourage viewers at home to sing along. John Travolta, Olivia Newton-John and Stockard Channing star.

9 p.m. on Hallmark Channel
Good Wish
After Cassie (Catherine Bell) moves her art history class to the local museum, her presentation on perspective has an unexpected impact on her students beyond the classroom context in “The Drieholz.” Joy (Katherine Barrell), meanwhile, has an upsizing dream about Abigail and Donovan (Sarah Power, Marc Bendall), although her first glimpse of that nocturnal vision could be misleading. Elsewhere, Sam (James Denton) performs successful surgery on Adam (Scott Lowell), but his long-term prognosis is unclear.

9 p.m. on WSFL Bulletproof
Noel Clarke and Ashley Walters return as childhood friends turned detectives Aaron Bishop and Ronnie Pike as this British crime drama opens Season 2. In the season premiere, what starts out as a case of theft leads to a series of events, including a surge in crime around the world. The competition begins as the detectives are tasked with making their personal childhood favorite incorporating a hand-picked ingredient. Each week, they’re given an unusually small list of ingredients to choose from, as they shop for their best rice dish.

The two finalists face a last challenge to fuse their native cuisine with that of their opponent for a shot at a $20,000 shopping spree.

10 p.m. on FX What We Do in the Shadows
Season 2 of this horror comedy bids “good eevee-ning” with a finale called “Theatre des Vampires,” an episode that finds Laszlo, Nadja, Nanandor and Colin Robinson (Matt Berry, Natasia Demetriou, Kayvan Novak and Mark Proksch) struggling to survive without the ever-vigilant Guillermo (Harvey Guiler) around to have their backs. It’s not an ideal time for fatal distractions, as they also must get ready for the most exclusive annual event on the vampire social calendar.

10 p.m. on TRUTV At Home With Amy Sedaris
From butter lambs to Jesus beards, host Amy Sedaris is full of tips about how to prepare the perfect Easter holiday celebration in this new episode. Not surprisingly, Amy incorporates some of her own favorite traditions, including a biañal egg hunt and a scrumptious Easter brunch. Her sister turns up as a surprise guest, bringing Easter cheer, plus a chilling Sedaris as a surprise guest, bringing Easter cheer, plus a chilling Sedaris.

What’s Available NOW On Hulu

“Crossing Swords”
This stop-motion-animated comedy series follows the adventures of a good-hearted peasant who realizes his coveted position of squire at the royal palace comes with definite drawbacks in the form of libidinous monarchs, crooks and charlatans. Worse, he’s now the black sheep of his criminal family and his siblings are intent on making him suffer. Nicholas Hoult, Breckin Meyer, Tony Hale, Luke Evans and Adam Pally head the voice cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Brick Mansions”
Set in a dystopian Detroit of the near future, this 2014 French-Canadian action film — a remake of the superior 2004 French film “District 13” — follows a heroic undercover cop (Paul Walker) who joins forces with an ex-con (David Belle, essentially recreating the character he played in “District 13”) to rescue the latter’s kidnapped girlfriend (Catalina Denis) and save the city from apocalyptic destruction. RZA also stars. This was the last film Walker completed before his death in November 2013.

“Movie: Gloria”
From Chile comes this 2013 comedy/drama about a free-spirited older Santiago woman and the realities of her whirlwind romance with a former naval officer who she meets out while clubbing. Chilean stage legend Paulina García (“I’m Not Lorena”) stars as the title character, in a cast with Sergio Hernández, Diego Fontecilla and Fabiola Zamora for director Sebastián Lelio (“The Year of the Tiger”).

“Movie: The Conjuring”
The director who launched the “Saw” franchise, James Wan, shows he has what it takes to freshen up another horror concept with this paranormal investigation melodrama ... surprisingly strong force at the 2013 summer box office. Vera Farmiga (“Bates Motel”) and Patrick Wilson (“Fargo”) — also one of Wan’s “Insidious” stars — play supposed experts on the supernatural who end up in over their heads when they probe a family's haunted farmhouse.
Adam Scott

During the four-season run of this family sitcom, many story lines arose from the familiar dilemma many couples face when it comes to finding time for romance after years or routine, but Adam’s (Matt LeBlanc) heart is in the right place in tonight’s series finale, as he tries to give Andi (Lisa Snyder) the perfect 20th anniversary gift by recreating their honeymoons with Kevin Nealon, Kali Rocha, Stacy Keach and Matt Cook also star in “Happy Ann-RV-sary.”
